

Master Index to the Dindsenchas

How to use this document

To search by title for a dindshenchas entry, simply scroll through the index. If it is listed in one or more of the works compiled by Edward Gwynn or Whitley Stokes, you will see the hyperlinked page or entry numbers, which you can simply click to open the relevant journal to the correct page. If you are working in a library setting with hard copies, the index will still tell you which journals/volumes you need and the entry number or page number.

If you are searching for a personal name, such as Cú Chulainn or Manannán Mac Lir, it may be in this index, followed by titles of the entries in which it is mentioned. I have only indexed the better known or more popular names, and my choices are somewhat subjective. If you are looking for a personal name which I have not included, or wish to be 100% exhaustive in your search, refer to Stokes' and Gwynn's indexes to individual works, listed and linked at the end of this document.

Spellings of place and personal names are quite variable between the different works, and I have not noted small differences. Please make allowance for slight variations in vowels, fadas, and things like nn vs. nd word endings when searching.
